

ADVICE AGAINST COVID-19

Coronaviruses are a large, rapidly spreading family of viruses with respiratory symptoms that might be serious only in certain risk groups.

The General Secretariat of the Spanish Government Presidency has prepared a document on basic preventive measures such as hand and respiratory hygiene, as well as the use of facemasks. In addition, following the advice published by the World Health Organisation (WHO), the document includes some links to both rumours spread and updated advice on international travel. The University of Alicante recommends that you read and follow carefully these tips to avoid getting infected.

For further information, check the section on coronavirus at the University of Alicante Medical Service with updated recommendations and protocols to be followed, according to the relevant national and international health authorities.
